CPYRGHT

In a mud-walled Camelot, castlelike huts conform to centuries-old plans. The five-turret dwelling of the Masakin reserves a separate room for each household activity (right). Husband and wife live with their own families until she first becomes pregnant; then he starts building the complex. Repairs go on regularly on thatch roofs and crumbling walls of dried mud.

Framed by an oval doorway, a woman grinds the day's ration of millet. A tined stick, anchored in the wall, substitutes for a cupboard. Calabashes, clay pots, and a jam tin from the expedition's supplies clutter the flour mill.
